CIRCULATION FORBIDDEN.

Copies of the Revolution, Published in California, Confiscated.

Tokio, Jan. 5.—The Official Gazette states that copies of the Japanese Socialist organ Kakumei, issued at Berkeley, Cal., have been confiscated and that its circulation in Japan has been prohibited. The paper urged the assassination of the Japanese emperor and President Roosevelt.

The Kakumei (Revolution) was published at Berkeley by T. Takemichi, a Japanese of radical views, who when questioned regarding an editorial in which he had advocated the removal of President Roosevelt, the Japanese emperor, and all other rulers, announced himself as a disciple of a popular author. He added that, in his capacity as a house servant, which occupation he followed in addition to editing the Kakumei, he had frequently beaten carpets with one hand while reading a copy of one of the popular author's books held in the other.

Hughes Has Begun His Investigation.
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Gov. Hughes has begun his promised investigation of the various departments of the state government. He said yesterday:

"I have already called on the heads of the various departments and talked with them about the matter in an informal way."
"Have you planned any particular probing of an individual department as a start?" was asked.
"No; I have not yet reached any plan of proceedings."

CZAR CHIEF OF DEFENCE

Takes Control Of Military Establishment

DOUMA'S POWER WEAKENS

In This Direction—Launitz Murder Has Caused Many Arrests—Gurke's Prosecution Recommended in Famous Scandal.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.—At a council held at Tsarke-Selo, the czar presiding, it was decided to abolish the office of minister of war and minister of marine. These departments henceforth will be governed by staff committees and the czar will be personally the chief of each service. This decision was taken in view of the existing fundamental laws, which require the ministers of war and marine to reply to interpellations in the Duma. The czar deemed that this was against the interests of the imperial defense. Consequently the questions relating to the army and navy will be replied to by a staff officer. The decision involves the retirement of General Boediger and Vice Admiral Biriloff. It is understood that Admiral Dubassoff will become chief of the naval staff.

Cannot Identify Launitz Assassin.

A general search of the lodgings of persons under police observation was made here Thursday night in the hope of discovering the accomplices of the assassin of Ernest of Prussia von der Launitz. Many arrests were made, but so far as known no important terrorists were captured. The assassin is still unidentified. The vice prefect, Sosnovsky, is conducting the investigation, pending the appointment of a successor to Von der Launitz. Baron Taube, chief of the gendarme corps, prefect of Police Rheinbof of Moscow and Governor Kurloff of Kiev, are mentioned for the position, which is one of the most responsible police posts in the empire. The persons condemned to death by the terrorists are reported to include Grand Duke Nicholas, Premier Stolypin and two Conservative members of the cabinet who lately received letters of warning. The assassination of Von der Launitz has caused a powerful impression. The newspapers all comment on the inability of the prefect of police to protect his own person against the attack of a single resolute terrorist, and ask how long a time will elapse before still more prominent personages are stricken by terrorist bullets. The press unites in demanding protection against the regime of assassination which is now resorted to by reactionists as well as terrorists.

BATTLE ROYAL PROMISED IN NEGRO TROOP DEBATE

Fight Over Lodge Amendment to Foraker Resolution Will Be Bitter When It Comes Up Again Monday.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The Senate controversy over the discharge of negro troops following the Brownsville affair has been intensified by the debate of Thursday, and it is expected that when the matter is again brought up on Monday discussion will wax more animated than ever.

Senator Lodge's amendment to the Foraker resolution introduced for the purpose of putting the Senate on record as declaring the legality of the President's discharge order, will participate in a great debate, it is believed, on the constitutional phases. Senator Lodge and Senator Spooner will lead in upholding the constitutionality of the President's action, while Senator Foraker is arming for a more vigorous attack than ever on the lawfulness of the White House course.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 5.—To the Purdy commission sent up by President Roosevelt, Lem Reeves, one of the negro soldiers discharged, has given evidence which is expected to lead to the arrest of two soldiers named and about a dozen others suspected of taking part in the raid. His testimony was very damaging also to Major Penrose and Capt. Macklin, and he will be held to appear against them at their court-martial next month.

EFFORT TO PUNISH POLES BALKED

Prominent Prisoners, Accused by the Prussian Government, Freed.

Gelsen, Province of Posen, Prussia, Jan. 3.—The prosecution of von Kocielski, a member of the Prussian House of Lords; of von Chvazowski, a member of the lower house of the Prussian Diet; of Herr Gladys, president of the International "Social" association; of Herr Skorozewski, commander in chief of the "Social" party; and of a number of other persons by the Prussian government on the charge of having taken part in a public meeting in the park of von Kocielski's castle without the consent of the government, ended today with the court discharging all of the defendants and placing the cost of the prosecution on the state.

MARINES' WORK IN CUBA DONE.

The Commission on Laws Urges Their Withdrawal.

Havana, Jan. 5.—The commission to revise the laws of Cuba under the presidency of Colonel E. H. Crowder, called upon Governor Magallon Thursday and reported the holding of its first session and the appointment of four sub-committees to consider electoral, judicial, municipal and civil service laws. The members declared that the American marines were anxious to get away from Cuba, and the commission thought they should be sent back to the United States, they having put an end to the rebellion. In future the sessions of the commission will be private, but a summary of the proceedings will be communicated to the press.

ENGLAND TO BE NEUTRAL?

This If Japan Should Invade Philippines

WOULD MIX IN IF KOREA

Were Attacked by United States—The London Times Sees Danger of Quarrel—Japan Tries to Prevent Trouble; Discourages Immigration.

London, Jan. 5.—The question of the attitude of Great Britain in the face of the possibility of a quarrel between the United States and Japan still simmers here. In an editorial article this morning, the Standard points out that everything hinges upon whether the aggressor is provoked or not, that being the essence of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. For instance, should the United States invade Korea, Great Britain would be bound to assist Japan, but if Japan invaded the Philippines that would be a private adventure in which Great Britain would not mix. By no stretch of the political imagination, says the Standard, could the exclusion of Japanese artisans and traders from the United States be represented as a breach of the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

LONDON TIMES SENSATIONAL.

Sees Danger of an American Conflict With Japan.

New York, Jan. 5.—The American London correspondent quoted a sensational despatch to the Times from San Francisco which asserts that the Japanese situation there is so serious that it may develop war with Japan unless California adopts President Roosevelt's policy and agree to ameliorate conditions which tend to exasperate Japan.

LOVE SHUT OFF.

Gloucester Man in $300 Bond Must Keep Away From His Sweetheart.

Gloucester, Jan. 5.—Carl J. Anderson, who is held in $300 bonds for drunkenness and for making threats to his sweetheart, Agnes Nelson, whom he expected to marry soon, must now keep away from her until she decides she is not afraid of him.

This is the ruling of the court and Anderson is put under $300 bonds for a month.

Anderson went to Boston last week, cashed a draft for $130, his wedding money, and spent it. He returned Tuesday, and went to see Miss Nelson. He had a revolver and made several threats. He was arrested.

In court today Anderson said that he was disappointed over the fact that the legacy from the estate of his mother in Sweden did not come up to his expectations. He said he did things for which he is at the present time sorry. Anderson said that he expected $1,000 from his mother's estate, and when only $132 arrived, he went to Boston, spent the money and the wedding was postponed.

New Motor Scarf—Dreary Frocks Have Long Skirts—Modes in Furs.

The girl who can knit can have the newest motor scarf for a small outlay of her treasured allowance. The scarf is knit of silk in a close stitch and is two yards long by six or eight inches wide.

It is useless to have a handsome gown made short unless designed for walking entirely for street wear. It looks as though the short skirt, no matter what the material, is not to be worn except for the most casual afternoon calls.

On house gowns the skirts are extremely full. They are long, sweeping ing the floor all round. To be sure, this is an awkward length, but American women are learning to manage them gracefully.

It is curious to note the return of the short Etan jacket, especially in such furs as sealskin and broadtail, and the little emine coats worn with white cloth skirts are a dream of loveliness.

The frock illustrated is a charming example of guimpe effect that is so greatly in vogue. The material is lousine of a soft yellow known as banana white. The trimming is brown velvet ribbon in graduated widths. Embroidered bands adorn the waist. The skirt is tucked in alternately longer and shorter groups over the hips.

The Times' Daily Short Story.

How He Became Chief of Scouts

[Original.]

Several "rets" of the civil war were comparing notes as to the why and wherefore of their advancement during their term of active service. All gave accounts creditable to themselves till it was the last man's turn, when he told the following story:

I enlisted in the ranks with the rest of the boys I knew in 1861. I didn't seem to have been cut out for a soldier. I was not easily disciplined. I was always straggling, and drills were to me intolerable. The only time I could be relied on to show up for duty was when there was fighting, and then it was not because I liked it, for I didn't, but because I dreaded the sneers of my comrades. Nobody ever thought for a moment of my being made a non-com, much less decorated with a shoulder strap.

Well, one day when we were cavorting around in Virginia, marching in one direction one day, another the next, never still forty-eight consecutive hours, not having had regular rations for some time, I got hungry and took the first opportunity to drop out and do a little foraging. I passed a house beside the road with a door leading down into a cellar. I tried it and found it unlocked. So I opened it and went in. There was nothing in the place but a girl, one of the southern girls of the period, with an olive complexion and hair cut square around her neck. She was washing something.

"What d'y' want?" she asked.

"I'm looking for something to eat," I replied. "I saw the door opening on to the road very convenient, so I thought I'd just step in and see what I could find."

"That's just the way that door has looked to all the stragglers in the army," she replied. "There's not been less than 5,000 men come in here. At first we had some provisions, but they were soon eaten up by soldiers, so we didn't put any more here. We don't keep the door locked because it would be kicked open. Are there any of your men near by?"

"Guess not," I said.

"Well, if there ain't I don't mind showing you where we keep our eatables. Do you see that wall? That shuts off a part of the cellar. Come upstairs and I'll show you how to get into it."

I went up to the floor above, and the girl opened a trapdoor. I went down and was looking about for a snack when I heard the door shut and locked.

There was no getting out, so after awhile I stretched myself on a table and went to sleep. I was awakened by a tramping above. The cellar was dark, so I knew it was night. Hearing the clank of a saber, I listened to discover if some of our men hadn't come in. They were not (Federals, but Confederates of high rank. I could hear every word they said. It was a council of war. When at last they settled on a plan to concentrate and attack our forces, they went over each detail again and again to be sure there should be no mistake. While they were doing it I was fixing it all in my memory so that if I got out in time I could warn our general.

In the morning the trap was opened and a couple of Confederate soldiers took me in charge. The girl wasn't there, but an old man and woman seemed to know all about my having been trapped. I doubt if either of them knew that their living room and kitchen had been used for a conference. I'm not sure they knew I was there when the conference was held. The soldiers took me away, and on the road we met the girl who had trapped me. I asked to speak to her and told her I had a watch in one of my pockets and would give it to her if she would get me off. Her eyes sparkled, and she agreed to try. She sent one of my guards to a house where she said they had a stock of hams and while he was gone managed to get the other one's musket, which she playfully fired at a tree. I ran up and took it from her, she only pretending to resist. The owner, seeing that I had the advantage of him, ran away. Then I gave the girl my watch, as I had promised, and took to the woods till I ran across some of our men.

While I was on my way to the general with my information I wondered how I would explain my being made a prisoner without giving away the fact that I had been straggling. Then it occurred to me that my story wasn't very probable anyway. Why didn't the old folks tell the generals that a Yankee soldier was imprisoned in the cellar? Why didn't the girl ask the soldiers to take my watch instead of getting me away from them in order to get it? I can't to this day explain the first, and the only explanation I can give of the second is that the girl didn't want any other claimant for it.

I made up a cook and bull story about having gone to sleep from exhaustion on the march and on waking up had found a chance to do some scouting. I called for a map and showed just where certain Confederate forces were located and how they could be concentrated. The information was acted on, and when the attack came our men were ready for it.

The result of all this was that I was given a commission and a place on the staff of the general commanding, with charge of the scouts. During the rest of my army service I told lots of men how to scout, and after my remarkable feat in that line they all believed I was fully competent to instruct them.

F. TOWNSEND SMITH.

HAS BIG CLAIM.

Canabrigian Calls Millions His—Seeks Chicago Land.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 5.—The Chronicle says:

On six United States deputy marshals was placed yesterday the responsibility of serving on 3,000 defendants notices of ejectment in a suit recently filed in the United States circuit court by Sidney Smith of Cambridge, Mass., who seeks to possess himself of South side property valued at approximately $40,000,000.

Among the defendants are many women unused to the forms of law, and there also are many persons of prominence, for Mr. Smith claims absolute title to all the land bounded by Thirty-fifth street on the north of Thirty-ninth street on the south and from Grand Boulevard on the west to a line running north from Cottage Grove avenue and Thirty-ninth street on the east.

He asserts an ancestor settled on the land in 1834, and filed a claim to it, but died before obtaining a patent to the property. In order to obtain standing in court it became necessary to include as defendants to the ejectment proceedings all persons living within the boundaries described in the plaintiff's bill.

The deputies met varied experiences during the day.

Quaker RANGES

Mrs. Sarah Heaney's Quaker Range Cost Her Less Than a Cent a Day For 21 Years.

A. S. Cook Company,
Woonsocket, R. I.
Gentlemen:—I purchased my Quaker range in June, 1885, of Joseph Proulx, this city. Its number is 8-20 and it is in perfect condition. During the twenty-one years I have had it, it has had but two new grates and has been lined three times. It is a first class baker, is very economical on fuel, and has given me perfect satisfaction.

I would not change it for any other make and as far as my work is concerned, it is as good as a new one.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Sarah Heaney.

121 Olo Street.

We want to tell you the history of Mrs. Heaney's range, for it is typical of the good service given by the Quaker Ranges all over New England.

In June 1885, Mrs. Heaney bought a Quaker Range for $48.00 and in twenty-one years of constant use it has only cost her $3.50 for grates and linings. This makes her total cost for twenty-one years, $51.50—an average of only $2.45 a year—less than 5c a week and less than one cent a day.

This is pretty cheap for a first class range, isn't it?—but there's more of the story to follow. At the end of twenty-one years, Mrs. Heaney's range was in such good condition, that it was worth $25.00 and in addition to that she was the winner in one of our recent "Oldest Quaker Range Contests"—receiving in exchange for her old range, a new Quaker worth $75.00.

Therefore after using a Quaker Range for twenty-one years, Mrs. Heaney is now the owner of a brand new Quaker—the finest in the line—and is actually $24.50 to the good.

What do you think of that?
